

The Apothecary Diaries is adapted into its first consumer game

TOHO Games is in charge of planning and production, entering the home video game business.

TOHO Co., Ltd. (Head Office: Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo; President & CEO: Hiroyasu Matsuoka; hereafter "TOHO") has decided to release The Apothecary Diaries: The False Imperial Brother, the first consumer game of the TV anime The Apothecary Diaries, in early 2027, which is planned and produced by its game business label "TOHO Games" and planned, produced, developed, and published by KOEI TECMO GAMES CO., LTD. (Head Office: Yokohama-shi, Kanagawa; Representative Director and President: Hisashi Koinuma hereafter "KOEI TECMO GAMES"). With the development of this title, "TOHO Games" enters the home video game business.

This title is a mystery adventure of a completely new story with the original draft handled by the original author, Hyuganatsu, in which Maomao, an apothecary raised in the pleasure district with an abnormal obsession with poisons and medicine, and Jinshi, a mysterious and handsome palace manager, challenge difficult incidents that occur in the Imperial Court.

The "Gust brand" of KOEI TECMO GAMES handles many RPGs, including the "Atelier" series that has surpassed 8 million units shipped worldwide in total. And "TOHO Games," the game business label of TOHO, which is developing the TV anime The Apothecary Diaries and promoting a live-action drama adaptation in collaboration with Amazon MGM Studios. Both parties are joining hands to create this title.
